Anatomy of the Gun Trace Task Force Scandal:
Its Origins, Causes, and Consequences

Executive Summary

January 2022

Step toe

GTTF Investigation Report, pp. iii-iv:

“If officers engaged in a foot pursuit, suspects would frequently be beaten once they were caught, and in some cases deliberately sent to the hospital. ...

BPD members conducted stops and made arrests without a sufficient factual or legal basis. ...

Facts acquired through lawful investigations would often be supplemented by evidence acquired illegally through other means. ...

Officers were taught that their courtroom testimony should not vary from the incident reports or charging documents they had submitted, even if those documents were wrong. ...

These practices have long been embedded in BPD’s culture and help to explain why it provided a nourishing environment for corruption and misconduct.”

GTTF Investigation Report, pp. vii-viii:

“A common form of corruption, which was not universally perceived by officers as inherently wrong, was making misrepresentations of fact to support law enforcement actions such as stops, arrests, and searches. ...

This category of misconduct took various forms. The BPD officer would falsely represent that an observation or set of observations had been made by the officer himself rather than by the supervisor or informant. Or the officer would fabricate the observation entirely. The falsehood would then be perpetuated through false testimony, if necessary, that would be consistent with the inaccurate written accounts of what had happened.

Our investigation demonstrated that this type of corruption was casual, routine, and pervasive—and carried with it no consequences. BPD members focused on the outcome—the arrest of someone they believed to be guilty—rather than the dubious means they used to achieve it. “

“Responses to a 2000 survey revealed “that nearly one out of every four BPD members believed that as many as 25% of BPD members were engaged in stealing money or drugs from drug dealers –a stunning result.”

“Presumably, if the definition of corruption had been expanded to include misrepresentations and lies in official police documents, which was common at the time, the number would have been even higher.”

The background of the slide is a collage of several black and white photographs of police officers. The photos are arranged in a somewhat overlapping, grid-like fashion, showing the faces of various officers. The overall tone is professional and serious.

GTTF Investigation Report, page viii:

“IA was reviled and distrusted by the BPD rank-and-file, and as a result, it had great difficulty recruiting and retaining capable investigators. IA investigators received no formal training of any kind, which further degraded its reputation and discredited its work.

Many BPD members believed the outcome of trial boards depended more on whom you knew than on what you did.

Simply put, the system that existed to deter, detect, and punish misconduct lacked credibility and both internal and external legitimacy.”

Re: MPIA Request

Ms. Levi:

I have received your request under the Maryland Public Information Act by email dated November 11, 2021, for a "Do Not Call" list and the basis for placement on a "Do Not Call" list.

This office does not specifically have a "Do Not Call" list as you have chosen to define that list. We do, however, possess a record of current officers or recently departed officers whom we either have indicated an intention not to call as a witness or will make disclosures to counsel for a defendant if the officer may be called as a witness. Despite the fact that you only asked for those which fit the category of "do not call," I have enclosed the entire record regarding officer witnesses. We possess no other records consistent with your request.

In the event you feel this is in any way a denial of your request, you have the right to seek judicial review of this response pursuant to General Provisions Article, §4-362.

Sincerely,

John P. Cox
